The award ceremony took place at Intergeo in Stuttgart, Tuesday September 15th 2015 The ceremony was introduced by president of CLGE, Maurice Barbieri. The winners presented their work, and awards were handed out by chair of the jury Leiv Bjarte Mjøs, and treasurer of CLGE, Dieter Seitz. Reinhard Blasi, GSA, Roenald von Coevorden, Trimble, and Gerd Buziek, ESRI, also took part in the ceremony and honored the respective winners.

Possible measures for improvement and attracting more participating students:

1. A more organized announcement activity should med initiated. This could be done by setting up a list of the universities, with one or several of the relevant professors as contact persons. It should be the responsibility of the national delegates to deliver information about universities and contact persons, to the board represented by the board member in charge of the students contest. In due time every year, for example in November an email should be sent to the contact persons, alerting the Students contest. One or two reminders could be sent in the period of January - March, or possible later.

2. All participants with papers accepted for the contest will receive a diploma.
