

CONDOMINIUM ...

as seen by Surveyors

Condominium ownership offers the highest level of protection of the property of individual owners in multi-apartment buildings. At CLGE, we are aware of this, which is why we have prepared an overview of some European best practices and shown the role of a Property Surveyor in the registration of condominiums.

This Condominium Compendium might change some minds

With the help of its Interest Group of Publicly Appointed and Regulated Liberal Surveyors (IG-PARLS) CLGE publishes its Condominium Compendium.

The document explains why this topic is so important and compares the situation in 9 CLGE Countries - Austria, Belgium, Croatia, Denmark, France, Germany, Luxembourg, Slovenia, and Switzerland. Due to the great interest of other CLGE countries, we will soon add more countries - Kosovo, Slovakia, Norway, and Turkey.

The Condominium Compendium defines the concept and describes the situation in 9 EU Member States, as seen by Surveyors. It establishes the vital link with euREAL<sup>IPMS Compliant</sup> and announces possible extensions in the field of 3D Cadastre and BIM.

The conclusion is clear; if States look for legal certainty in property, the surveying part shall be performed by property surveyors. As built plans can and must be part of the Registration process.

You are cordially invited to read this compendium. If you think that the situation in your country should also be presented, please write to us. We will be happy to add your country as well.

In this way, we will together strengthen the role of the Property Surveyor as a guarantor for land and built property.
